District Attorney in this district will have to change his line of proceedings, for in every case of the kind he has used the schedule in bankruptcy to show the commission of fraud.

GIRL OF NINE TAUGHT TO ROB BY A WOMAN

Brooklyn Child Makes Amazing Confession of More Than 40 Thefts.

HID. LOOT IN DOLL CART

NEW YORK, July 2.—A marvellous story is that told by ninety-year-old Abbie Wilson in the Brooklyn Police Court, of how she was forced to rob homes by her fastidious mother, Mrs. Julia Campbell, of No. 38, Madison street, who was taught to secure her valuable loot under the Bear brand of her doll carriage.

The police say that her tale of thievery is true, and will stamp the old woman as a veritable feminine Page. The girl confessed to more than forty robberies in the city, and said she had stolen from the homes of Mrs. Campbell and other juvenile dupes. The child's mother was borne out when the woman's house was searched and more than $1,000 worth of goods were taken. The girl said she stole silk skirts, for neck pieces, white waistbands, handkerchiefs, and dozens of expensive hats, handbags and dresses.

Wanted To Be Good.

"I wanted to be a good little girl, but she wouldn't let me. I didn't want to do anything but go to school," said Miss Campbell as she helped her mother wash up after breakfast. "She told me if I didn't do as she told me to (a) I was going to get a whipping."

A piping voice Anne thus accused her mother of being a tyrant. The girl's father, Mr. Campbell, who had been arrested last week, was held without bail by Magistrate J. H. Giensthuus for trial on July 8.

This and lacking the child was taken from her home before the magistrate. Explained proper parental care she was sent to St. Joseph's home for girls, where she will live with her mother until she is 16 years old. She is now 10 years old.

The girl's mother managed to escape from the home on May 23 and returned to Mrs. Campbell. The mother was sentenced to the Bedford reformatory, and her father, according to the detectives, is home only at intervals. Anne acted as a "little

The youngsters declare that Mrs. Campbell compelled her to go out with a doil marriage, and when a house that looked new was seen, the older woman told the girl to go in. Mrs. Campbell said that Annie's friends that she could reach through the iron gratings and nailed basement windows. She said that she was not sure she was lost and to ask to be directed to the door.

If undetected, she would grab up articles of value, run to the perambulator and push it out the door. She said that she and then wheel it away, while Mrs. Campbell watched the proceedings from a safe distance. She said that she had identified some of the stuff used by the girl in the robbery as their property.

Many women who are in the habit of going to the store to buy a pair of shoes of the youngest sympathized with the girl and said that they would be glad to help her in her indignation race against Mrs. Campbell.

Before this, she added later, "I never did to do anything wrong at all. I never did. First always I picked me when I was saying. But I never did any wicked things; not real wicked things. I never did anything wicked till Mrs. Brown told me that I was wicked. I was so mad that it was wicked at first, what she said, because she told me it was wicked. I was the things I took the first time. I was so mad that I didn't like her for them because she'd told me that she didn't want to stay because she was wicked. I was so mad that I was I never stole a thing; no, not a thing; I never did, not till she told me I was a thief. I was so mad when I knew it was stealing, I would have been so mad that I would have been so mad, and she used to beat me to make me stop. I was so mad that I would have been so mad to pull my arm and say it was good for opening the gates, and she

POLICE HUNT MISSING GIRL FIND MAN DEAD IN HOTEL ROOM

Relatives of Emma Miller, sixteen years old, of No. 1,077 Columbus avenue, Housatonic, have asked the assistance of the police in locating her. They say she has been missing from home since Sunday.

It is said she was last seen that night at Levee Beach in company with an Italian girl. She was formerly in a room at the Levee Beach. Three weeks ago, it is said, Mrs. Miller ordered the barber to give up his room and leave the house, and since then nothing has been seen of him until Sunday night.

The girl is large for her age. She wears blue dress and a large white hat, trimmed with lace.

Wanted: A new sensation. How Mr. Robert R. Reynolds, rich society leader, has tried to relieve the stupid mind of insipid fashionable society by testing the thrills of life as a tramp, teamship, hustler, mail carrier, soldier, sailor, broncho-buster, newspaper editor, book agent and prizefighter, sailor, policeman, railroad laborer, actor, patent medicine street doctor, author, athlete, journalist and cattle thief man. See next Sunday's AMERICAN.

Robert Burns, aged sixty, was found dead in bed in a room at the Hampton House, Haymarket square, early this morning. He registered at the hotel two days ago and was last seen alive at 11 o'clock last night when a bellboy took him a pitcher of ice water. Early this morning a bellboy noticed that the door of Burns' room was open and entered. He found Burns, fully dressed, dead on the bed. Death is believed to have been due to heart failure induced by heat. Medical Examiner Magrath will perform an autopsy on the body.

JUMPS IN RIVER FIGHTS SAVED

By Boston American Leased Wire

NEW YORK, July 2.—While the French liner Paris was crowded with tourists at sea on La Lorraine today, Perlin Viegas, said to have been an inmate of Maine Hospital for the Insane at Augusta, jumped into the North River from the pier's end. Three longshoremen lunged into the water after him, and after a minute struggle, in which two of the men were nearly drowned, they got a third around him and he was dragged to shore and placed under arrest. He did the same thing yesterday at the Italian Line pier.

END OF A GOOD FIGHT

It Insures the Right of the People to Count Their Own Votes. It Makes Fraud Less Safe. It Is Its Own Vindication

Copyright, 1908, by American Journal Examiner

After the Mayoralty election in New York City in November, 1905, a majority of the citizens of New York City, INCLUDING GEORGE B. McCLELLAN, THE MAN DECLARED MAYOR, believed that there had been fraudulent counting of the ballots, in addition to the infinitely greater frauds—of false registration and repeating—that PRECEDED the ballot counting.

All the readers of this newspaper remember some details at least of the long fight for the rights of the people that followed that election.

In a public statement on November 8, 1905, Mr. Hearst said: "I shall fight this battle to the end, in behalf of the people who have cast their votes for me."

Mr. Hearst has kept his word to the men who voted for him, to the readers of his newspapers and to the entire public vitally interested in the purity of elections.

The end of the fight has come with the decision of Justice Lambert that Mr. McClellan must keep his seat, and that THE PROVED STUFFING OF BALLOT BOXES IN MORE THAN A HUNDRED DISTRICTS DOES NOT JUSTIFY THE THROWING OUT OF THOSE STUFFED BOXES.

Had they been thrown out Mr. Hearst must have been declared Mayor.

This newspaper wishes, first of all, in behalf of the public, to acknowledge Justice Lambert's patience and fairness in the conduct of the trial. His refusal to throw out ballot boxes PROVED to have been stuffed, PROVED to contain hundreds of ballots in excess of the actual number of voters registered as voting, is based on his unwillingness to disfranchise those whose honest votes appear in the boxes with the unquestionably dishonest votes. We have no comment to make on that decision.

In taking leave of this fight for the people and their rights, and preparing with unabated enthusiasm to take up and to prosecute in the same fashion any other fights in the direction of duty, it is well for this newspaper and its readers to review briefly the long struggle for the rights of the voters and its results.

We have said that Mr. McClellan himself believed that there had been fraud in the counting of the ballots, in addition to the crime of repeating, and that there had been stuffing of the ballot boxes. No man will question this statement, for at every step in the long fight the right of the people to count their own votes and to search for fraud in their ballot boxes was combated with utmost desperation by George B. McClellan and his attorneys.

Whether Mr. McClellan KNEW of fraud, or only had good reason to fear it, the public must decide. It is certain THAT THE BALLOT BOX FRAUDS AND BALLOT BOX STUFFING, WHICH HE HAS STRUGGLED DESPERATELY TO COVER UP FOR TWO YEARS AND A HALF, HAVE BEEN UNCOVERED AND PROVED.

Mr. McClellan's alleged plurality has been reduced by 869 votes. A change of 869 votes in the entire State of New York when Grover Cleveland was elected President would have sufficed to change the result of the election.

Had Mr. McClellan's plurality been only five hundred or six or eight hundred, he would now be deprived of his office, despite Justice Lambert's refusal to throw out ballot boxes admittedly stuffed.

It is not necessary to tell any intelligent citizen that Mr. Hearst, in making this fight for the recount AND IN GETTING THE RECOUNT IN ACCORDANCE WITH HIS PROMISE TO THE PUBLIC, was not trying to secure for himself a public office. Mr. Hearst has spent more than a quarter of a million dollars out of his own pocket in making this public fight. And he considers the money well spent.

It is not the counting of the ballots alone that has been accomplished, not merely the positive proof of Tammany's corruption or of Mr. McClellan's pusillanimity in his opposition to an honest count; not merely the reduction of the alleged plurality by almost one-third, and not merely the proving of deliberate ballot box stuffing.

The fight made by William Randolph Hearst, represented by C. J. Shearn and other attorneys acting in the public interest, has established permanently the principle, hitherto doubtful or actually denied by high courts, THAT THE PEOPLE HAVE A RIGHT TO COUNT THEIR OWN VOTES WHEN THEY DOUBT THE HONESTY OF THE COUNT.

The establishment of this right makes unnecessary hereafter a fight lasting more than two years and costing more than a quarter of a million dollars in order to establish the truth. It is a right of absolutely vital importance in a republic.

Before Mr. Hearst made this fight it would have been impossible FOR ANY POOR MAN nominated by the people to vindicate the people's rights at the polls. Mr. Hearst, by the expenditure of the necessary amount of money, plus the necessary amount of fighting energy, has made it possible for a poorer man, or one less given to persistent fighting, in future elections to establish his rights, if reasonable doubt and public sentiment support them, without the expenditure of a fortune or years of effort.

In addition, the establishment of this precedent—and this is most important—MAKES BALLOT BOX CHEATING, BALLOT BOX STUFFING AND FALSE COUNTING INFINITELY MORE DANGEROUS THAN HITHERTO.

Before this fight was made by W. R. Hearst, political thugs, bosses and heelers were safe once their dirty work was done. The announcement of the result—however dishonest—ended the citizens' rights, and many a time has made most shameless cheating triumphant.

Hereafter ballot box swindlers will not feel safe, because W. R. Hearst's attorneys have shown the way to open the boxes and established a precedent that WILL open them.

The fight which terminated Tuesday has lasted steadily for two years and a half. It has been a hard, uphill battle against the man in office, against the Legislature, against many adverse decisions of judges.

It has been a triumphant fight, and if those that hate honesty in politics or in journalism can find comfort in the fact that the bold frauds disclosed are not sufficient to unseat their beneficiary they are welcome to that comfort.

The people, for whom the fight has been made, know WHY it was made, that it was made FOR THEM, and that the same kind of a fight will be made again by the same agency whenever it shall appear necessary.

STRIFE WITH OURSELVES

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

THERE was once a woman came to me for explanation, counsel and comfort. Explanation of God's seeming cruelty to her prayers, counsel upon her course of action, and comfort for her despair. She was well past the half-century mark, worn, prematurely aged, bruised, discouraged.

She had been a woman of craving ambitions, mad for material pleasures and benefits, for money, place, power, prominence. All of these she had fought for, even at the sacrifice of her higher convictions and in defiance of the opinions of others.

It had all been long ago. For years she had been seeking to live quietly, peacefully and happily, and to be useful and good. And with each effort toward usefulness came disappointment. Obstacles rose in her path, discord destroyed harmony, chase was given where she hoped for order.

And so she was bitter toward God, and believed He was cruel and spiteful, like an ignorant human being. Instead it was the debris of old desires lying jumbled in her mind, the ingrained lack of concentration, the strife, the remorse, the sorrow for herself and the cruel disappointment with it all, which brought the results she deplored.

Regret Is Vain

In place of sitting down in the silence and saying to her soul, "We have had our schooling, the lesson is learned and the higher truth has come; God is just, and I thank Him for all He has taught me, and peace mine," she stood with tense nerves and defiant eyes and cried: "I will have peace! I will be let alone by Fate—and only a devil would try to hinder me now in my old age."

Let the Past Go

If a man puts his shoulder out of joint or fractures it, before he can resume his duties he must lie quiet for a time and let nature remedy the evil. So, if he disorders his life by wrong ambitions or desires and makes havoc of his happiness he must learn to keep still. He has himself before he can restore order.

To dash about gesticulating and crying for aid will never mend the shoulder, or the back. The bones and the mentality must knit in repose and silence.

It is folly to wish we had not done this or that. Once done we cannot undo it, and better conserve our forces to repair the error by accepting its lesson and making it a part of our wisdom.

Let the past go. Men have been beguiled by pure health and reputation at fifty and have lived to win fortune, vitality and respect.

Nothing is impossible to the soul that will wrap the mantle of silence about itself and wait and bide.
